Market Sentiment & Global News

CAUTIOUSLY BULLISH

S&P 500 +0.40% | Nasdaq +0.93% | Russell 2000 +1.52%. The S&P 500 has fully erased Iran war losses. Markets are rallying on Iran deal hopes after Tehran reached out to resume talks, even as Trump ordered a naval blockade of Iranian oil in the Strait of Hormuz. Ceasefire remains fragile.

> Positive surprise: March PPI rose just 0.5% (vs. 1.1% expected), core PPI only +0.1% (vs. 0.5% est). This is the coolest producer inflation reading in months and could ease pressure on the Fed. Bullish for rate-sensitive names.

Fed Rates	Held at 3.50–3.75%. Next FOMC Apr 28–29. Some officials open to rate hikes if inflation persists, but cooler PPI eases that risk. 1 cut still penciled for 2026.
Inflation	March CPI at 3.3% YoY, energy +10.9%, gasoline +21.2%. But the PPI undershoot suggests pipeline pressures are easing. Cleveland Fed nowcast for April CPI trending lower.
Geopolitics	US-Iran: Ceasefire agreed (halt strikes, reopen Hormuz) but fragile — talks in Islamabad face obstacles. Trump threatened 50% tariffs on China over potential arms shipments to Iran. Oil volatile around $94–$105/bbl.
GDP	Q4 2025 GDP +0.5% (down from 4.4% in Q3). IMF projects moderate below-average global growth. Payroll gains expected ~60K/month in 2026.
Sector Rotation	Energy XLE +38.2% YTD. Industrials and consumer defensive outperforming. Tech / Mag 7 down ~11% in Q1. Capital fleeing AI tech for "old economy." Healthcare also favored.

Trade Suggestions

🔴 URGENT — LC: Buy Back $15 Call or Accept Assignment

Position: Short 1x $15C expiring Apr 17 (THURSDAY — 3 days). Stock at $15.90, call ITM by $0.90. 100 shares at avg $17.40.

Action: High probability of assignment. If assigned: shares called at $15, net loss ~$1.63/share ($163 total) after premium. Options: (1) Let assignment happen — take the $163 loss, free up capital, miss Apr 27 earnings catalyst. (2) Buy back call (~$0.95 = $95 cost) and hold shares unhedged into earnings (EPS guide $1.65–$1.80 is solid). (3) Buy back and roll to May $17.5C to maintain covered call into earnings.

Recommendation: If you believe in the earnings catalyst, buy back the call and roll to May. Cooler PPI is a tailwind for fintech lending names.

Macro: Cooler PPI (+0.1% core) eases rate hike fears — positive for fintech. But CPI still elevated at 3.3%.

🔴 URGENT — META: Close Bull Call Spread for Profit

Position: Long 2x $637.5C / Short 2x $705C, expiring Apr 24 (10 days). Net cost $9.30/share, current spread value ~$20.67. Profit: ~$2,273.

Action: The spread has more than doubled. META at $634.53 is just below the $637.5 lower strike — the $21.875 call value is mostly time value that will decay rapidly. Earnings Apr 29 are AFTER expiry, so no earnings boost. Recommend closing this week to lock in $2,273.

If META dips below $620, the spread could lose value fast with only 10 days left.

Macro: Tech rotation headwind persists (Mag 7 -11% in Q1). But META overtaking Google in ad revenue is a strong company-specific catalyst.

🟡 HIGH — QBTS: Growing Loss on Covered Calls — Decide Now

Position: Short 3x $15C expiring May 15. QBTS at $16.44 (ITM by $1.44, worsening). Call loss: $446 (up from $251 last report). 300 shares avg $29.06 (underwater $3,785).

Action: Situation is deteriorating — call losses nearly doubled in days. CEO speaking at Semafor today could be a catalyst either way. Options: (1) Buy back calls now ($823.50) to stop the bleeding, then sell May/June $18C+ if expecting further recovery. (2) Let assignment happen at $15 to exit — total realized loss ~$3,837 but stops further downside. (3) Hold — analysts target $40, but 215x revenue makes this the most speculative position in the portfolio.

Macro: Strongest headwind in portfolio. Rotation away from speculative growth. Energy sector (+38% YTD) is draining capital from quantum/AI plays. China tariff threats add risk.

🟡 HIGH — MSFT: Prepare $400 Covered Call Strategy Before Earnings

Position: Short 1x $400C expiring Jun 18. MSFT at $391.18 ($8.82 below strike). Call at $18.675 (loss $783). 100 shares avg $257.18.

Action: Earnings Apr 29. Bernstein target $641, Goldman says "buying opportunity." If Azure growth beats, MSFT could gap above $400. Options: (1) Buy back $400C and roll to Aug $430C+ to capture more upside (~$1,868 cost to buy back). (2) Let it ride — if assigned, profit is still $153.66/share ($15,366 total). (3) Wait until after earnings to decide (risky if it gaps up). Recommend deciding before Apr 29.

Macro: PPI undershoot is bullish for growth. Goldman sees tech sell-off as "value opportunity." Azure AI positioning overcomes sector rotation drag.

🟢 HOLD — AMZN: Maintain Covered Call, Earnings Approaching

Position: 280 shares at $104.62 (now $245.76, +135%). Short 2x $270C expiring Jul 17. Call OTM by $24.

Action: Earnings Apr 23 is only 9 days away. Globalstar acquisition talks and Leo satellite launch in mid-2026 are new catalysts. Anthropic Mythos model is driving AWS AI demand. $270 strike gives comfortable room. Hold the position. If AMZN pops on earnings, reassess the $270C.

Macro: Iran ceasefire lowers shipping costs. Satellite/Leo service reduces Starlink dependency. AWS AI diversifies revenue beyond pure e-commerce.

🟢 HOLD — MRVL: Ride Nvidia Partnership Momentum

Position: 25 shares at $89.00, now $132.02 (+48%). No options overlay.

Action: Nvidia $2B investment is transformational. 40% run in 3 weeks. Barclays $150 target. Consider selling Jun $150C covered calls to monetize the rally while capping at the analyst target. AI infrastructure is one of the few tech subsectors still attracting capital in this rotation.

Macro: AI infrastructure is the exception to tech rotation. Nvidia partnership insulates from broader tech sell-off. Optical networking = structural growth.

🟢 HOLD — GOOG: Small Position, Earnings Apr 29

Position: 5 shares at $306.55, now $325.00 (+6%).

Action: Trading near 52-week high. Google Cloud growth 48%, Search generating $615M/day. 44 analysts Strong Buy, target $355–$360. Small position — hold through earnings.

Macro: Cloud AI demand offsets rotation concerns. Search revenue is recession-resistant.

🟢 HOLD — CPNG: Monitor Data Breach, Insider Buying Positive

Position: 50 shares at $20.40, now $20.31 (flat).

Action: Nvidia AI factory collaboration is a positive catalyst. Q4 revenue grew 11% YoY. Notable insider buying. But data breach remediation is ongoing risk and Developing Offerings losses are concerning. Earnings May 12. Hold.

Macro: South Korea exposure diversifies from US-centric risks. Nvidia AI logistics partnership is a differentiator.

🔵 CONSIDER — GILD: Hold $140 Calls — Healthcare Rotation Tailwind

Position: Long 2x $140C expiring Jun 18. GILD at $137.92 (OTM by $2.08). Calls at $7.85 vs $7.81 avg (essentially breakeven now, improved from last report).

Action: Triple analyst upgrades in April: Citi $165, Morgan Stanley $175, Scotiabank Buy. Aggressive M&A (Tubulis $5B, Arcellx, Ouro). Healthcare is a leading sector in 2026 rotation. EPS forecast $8.66 (+6.3%). Hold — the thesis is intact and sector winds are favorable. Needs $147.81 at expiry to break even.

Macro: Healthcare and consumer defensive are rotation winners. GILD insulated from Iran/oil and tech sell-off. Multiple analyst price target raises.

🔵 CONSIDER — PLTR: Evaluate Conviction — Defense vs. Valuation

Position: 25 shares at $153.12, now $137.27 (underwater $396).

Action: Gained 3.3% today on Iran deal optimism. Defense role is meaningful in current geopolitical environment. 70% revenue growth and 127% Rule of 40 are exceptional. But valuation (115% overvalued per GF Value) and Anthropic competition narrative weigh. Options: (1) Sell covered calls (e.g., May $145C) to reduce cost basis before May 11 earnings. (2) Hold for defense spending thesis. (3) Cut losses if lacking conviction — high-multiple names are most vulnerable to rate hikes.

Macro: Defense spending tailwind from Iran conflict. But 50% China tariff threat could hurt broader tech sentiment. Cooler PPI helps high-growth valuations modestly.
